

Please do not let the Consumer Bankers Association weaken Indiana's Telephone Privacy law.

I consider unsolicited phone calls as an invasion on my time, and of my privacy. I do not have a telephone installed in my home to enable these companies to harass me with these nuisance calls.

I pay my phone bill, not these annoying solicitors, and therefore I should have a say in the matter of whom I want to be able to invade on my time and my phone. Therefore, let me state that I like Indiana's Telephone Privacy law just the way it is.

Thank you,

Linda L. Lusby
